Leaders Recognized for Support of Ag Industry

Two people who have shown an exceptional commitment to supporting and promoting the state's agriculture industry were honored recently by the SC Advocates for Agriculture.

Sen. Harvey S. Peeler Jr. and Dr. Thomas R. Scott were each named 2014 Advocate of the Year. The awards were presented at the seventh annual Advocates of the Year Recognition Reception on August 7.

Sen. Harvey Peeler, Jr.

In addition to being a life-long dairy farmer, Sen. Peeler has served in the South Carolina Senate since 1981, representing Cherokee, Spartanburg, Union, and York Counties. He has held the positions of Majority Leader and Chairman of the Medical Affairs Committee since 2005.

He also chairs both the State House Committee and the College and University

Board of Trustees Screening Committee. Sen. Peeler received the public sector award for his advocacy efforts while in the Senate.

Dr. Scott, with the College of Agriculture, Forestry, and Life Sciences at Clemson University, received the private sector award. He has been a professor at Clemson since 1995, served as the interim dean from 2009-2011, and served as dean from 2011-2014. Dr. Scott has now returned to his teaching role at Clemson.

The new president of South Carolina State University, President Thomas Elzey, was also recognized at the event.

SC Advocates for Agriculture was created in 2005 to assist in the marketing and promotion of the state's agriculture products and the overall agriculture industry. For more information regarding the organization, visit www.scadvocates4ag.org.

Ready for Some Football?

If it's fall, it's football. Fall, which always officially arrives before the thermometer says so, is the time when college football takes center stage. This is especially true across the South, where loyalties are strong, and pre-game rituals are a vital part of the fun. That means tailgating. Like so many fans, our family has always "packed the pickup" with food and other necessities for a tailgate party.

Just like way back when I was a student at Carolina, the kids today have their corners staked out early. We did the same, usually at the rocket at the state fair grounds. When Blanche and I got married, we tailgated with other young couples. Then when children started coming along, they added to the fun and to the challenges! Of course as they got older, their friends were invited too. With a good tailgate, it's usually the more the merrier.

The crowd grew through the years, with folks from Bowman and Orangeburg joining in at the Farmers Market. Family members, friends, and friends of friends from all over would stop by the tailgates. One year, on the hottest game of the year, I brought our portable air conditioner from the farm shop. Needless to say, we were a popular stop that day.

4-H Kids Post Big Wins at Southern Regionals

The 2014 Southern Regional 4-H Horse Championship, hosted by NC State University 4-H Horse Program, was held July 29-August 2 in Raleigh.

The South Carolina 4-H Horse program successfully produced the best collective finish in this event in the state's history. The delegation was represented by 27 educational contest projects and 49 horse show exhibitor projects. In a field of 228 total individual competitors, every educational contest competitor won an award for team and/or individual events:

South Carolina had 2 Champion Teams Overall and 2 Champion Individuals Overall.

Hippology – Competing against 15 other teams, SC was champion in exam phase, champion in stations phase, 5th in judging phase, and 3rd in team problem, which culminated in a Champion Team overall finish and 9th high team overall. The other SC team was 10th in stations phase and 5th in team problem.

Ashley McCarter (York), left, and Ashtyn Kinney (Greenwood) were champions in Horse Team Presentation.

Individually, Kristy Waldrep (Lee) was champion in the exam phase, 4th in stations phase, and 3rd high individual overall.

See Latest Research & Techniques at Pee Dee Farm Field Day

The annual Pee Dee Farm Field Day at Clemson University's Pee Dee Research and Education Center offers an inside view of the latest agricultural research and farm techniques on Tuesday, September 9.

Separate morning tours will allow visitors to observe the management of various crops, with their choice of a tour of cotton production, or soybeans and peanuts, or sorghum, forestry/wildlife, and bioenergy crops. The field tours will run simultaneously and are repeated, allowing visitors to participate in two of the three tours. Each tour lasts about 90 minutes. Tours begin at 9 a.m. and 10:30 a.m.

The event begins at 8 a.m. Registration is not required and lunch is free. Recertification credits are available for Certified Crop Advisers (CCA) and SC licensed pesticide applicators.

The 2,300-acre Pee Dee Research and Education Center is at 2200 Pocket Road in Florence near Interstate 95. The center conducts research and education programs on traditional and new crops that offer economic potential for the Pee Dee region of South Carolina. Research at the center often involves partnerships with other Clemson programs and the USDA Agriculture Research Service and Natural Resources Conservation Service.

For more information on the field day, email Mandy Stephan at stepha2@clemson.edu or call 843-662-3526, ext. 263.

CTAP Enrollment Is Open through October 7

Farmers should enroll in the Cotton Transition Assistance Program (CTAP) now through October 7. The CTAP program, created by the 2014 Farm Bill, provides interim payments to cotton producers during the 2014 crop year until the Stacked Income Protection Plan, a new insurance product also created by the legislation, is available in 2015. Details on the CTAP plan will be released soon.

CTAP applications approved before October 1 are subject to congressionally mandated automatic reductions of 7.2 percent for the 2014 crop year. Applications approved after October 1 will be reduced the required 7.3 percent for the 2015 crop year. The Budget Control Act of 2011 requires USDA to implement these reductions to program payments.

Margin Protection Replaces Milk Income Loss Program

The 2014 Farm Bill authorized the Margin Protection Program (MPP) for dairy producers. The new, voluntary risk management program replaces the Milk Income Loss Contract program, which expired on September 1, 2014.

The registration and annual election period for the Margin Protection Program began September 2 and will end on November 28 for coverage in both 2014 (September through December) and calendar year 2015.

MPP-Dairy offers protection to dairy producers when the difference (the margin) between the all-milk price and national average feed cost falls below a certain producer selected amount.

A decision tool will be made available on the Farm Service Agency (FSA) website in the fall of 2014 to help producers make coverage level decisions.

To sign up or get more information about either of these programs, please visit your local FSA office, or go to www.fsa.usda.gov by the dates specified above.

Edisto REC Highlights Research

Clemson University is having an outdoor field day from 9 a.m. - 1 p.m. on September 25 at Edisto Research and Education Center in Blackville. It will highlight current research on innovative crop production technologies and techniques.

- The program topics include:
- The use of cover crops for herbicide resistant weed management and soil improvement
  - Advance double cropping system for cotton and soybeans
  - Technologies for drought risk management

- Advanced drip and overhead irrigation technologies
  - Insect management in cotton and soybean
  - Update on soybean and grain sorghum production in South Carolina
  - Precision nutrient management strategies
- Registration starts at 9 a.m. and the field tour starts promptly at 9:30 a.m. A catered lunch follows the field presentations. Pesticide applicator and CCA credits will be offered. For more information, please contact Dr. Mike Marshall at Clemson at 803-284-3343, ext. 228.

Ready for Some Football?

We're planning two huge tailgate parties soon, and you're all invited. Really! One of the great things about the Department of Agriculture is that we get to combine fun things with the job—like the terrific tailgate party we sponsor at one of the USC games each year. This enormous event, now in its fourth year, will be held Sept. 13 at the USC-Georgia game.

Can't leave the Tigers out of the fun, though, so this year we're sponsoring a similar tailgate party at the Clemson-SC State game on Sept. 6. That game kicks off at 12:30 p.m., so we'll be celebrating agriculture beginning about 9 a.m. until half an hour before kick-off. Come join us, along with SC Cooperative Extension and Clemson's College of Agriculture, Forestry and Life Sciences, in front of Littlejohn Colliseum. SportsTalk will name the Certified SC Player of the Week, and I'll go out on the field to deliver the game ball.

The event will be a little different at Carolina, where we'll be serving a full buffet. That's right, Gamecocks, we're giving you a free meal! Local products will be turned into such tailgating favorites as beef, hot dogs, chicken wings, peanuts, and quail, just to name a few. We'll be there from about 12:30 until 3 p.m. Did I mention that's the Carolina-Georgia game? That's always a critical game on the schedule, and you don't want to watch it on an empty stomach. No matter what the outcome, our fans will be winners. Come on over to Gamecock Village and join us.

Our goal at both tailgates is to broaden the fans' knowledge of agriculture in our state and let them see that a great tailgate menu starts right here on a South Carolina farm. What better way to do that than to serve good ole South Carolina food?

My wife Blanche has shared two of her favorite tailgating recipes. Our family and friends love both of these dishes—you just can't go wrong with food like this. Plan to join us at one, or both, of our tailgate parties. I hope to see you there!

Orzo with Spring Vegetables

- 4 cups chicken broth
- 2 cups water
- 1 pound orzo pasta
- 3/4 to 1 cup extra virgin olive oil (divided)
- 4 cups fresh spinach leaves
- 1 1/2 cups thinly sliced sundried tomatoes
- grilled and sliced boneless, skinless chicken breasts (optional)
- Salt and fresh ground pepper
- 1/2 cup Kalamata olives
- 1 bunch of green onions, finely chopped
- 1/2 cup thinly sliced fresh basil
- 1/2 cup toasted pine nuts
- 8 ounces feta cheese
- juice of one lemon

Bring broth and water to a boil and add orzo, cooking according to package. Rinse with cool water and drain. To the warm orzo, add 1/2 cup of oil and set aside to cool. Toss with remaining ingredients and add 1/4 cup oil mixed with lemon juice. Season with salt and pepper. Serve at room temperature.

Black Eyed Pea Salsa

- Drain the following canned vegetables and mix together:
- 2 cans black eyed peas
  - 1 can black beans
  - 1 can shoe peg corn

- Add:
- 1 bunch spring onions, chopped
  - 1 small container grape tomatoes, cut in half
  - 1 large stalk celery, finely chopped
  - Jalapeño peppers diced (I use the ones in a jar) to taste
  - 1 bunch fresh cilantro, chopped fine

At the last minute add 2 ripe avocados, diced, and the juice of 4 to 6 limes, and salt and pepper to taste. Serve with tortilla chips.

New Clemson Director to Expand Extension, 4-H

The Clemson Extension Service and its 4-H programs are getting a big boost from the new Clemson Extension Director, Dr. Thomas Dobbins. Speaking to members of the SC Agriculture Council at its quarterly meeting in August, Dr. Dobbins announced the hiring of 20 new Extension agents in the next two years, as well as a renewed emphasis on youth programs. In addition, 18 new hires will be placed at research and education centers across the state.

"Our mission is agriculture. As I told President (James) Clements, if we don't emphasize Extension and research, then Clemson will be in jeopardy of having a marred image," Dr. Dobbins said. Since the University's "high seminary of learning", conception and its acceptance as South Carolina's primary land-grant institution, Clemson has led our state in agricultural research and stewardship.

The research and education centers are doing innovative work in a variety of fields, such as molecular genetics and soil science. "The work they are doing at Coastal (research center) on vegetables is one of the best-kept secrets in the United States," he said. Each of the regional stations has a different emphasis, such as genetic research or soil science.

Furthermore, starting this fall, 4-H will be back under Extension, a move Dr. Dobbins thinks will strengthen both areas. He announced his five-year plan to deliver quality programs to the people in each county.

Dr. Thomas Dobbins

"One of my missions is to revitalize 4-H in South Carolina," he said. "We are moving forward with FFA and 4-H. They are the future for us." He wants to bring competition back into the programs. When kids compete with each other, they learn that the most-prepared youngsters and the best projects come out on top. Hard work, dedication, practice, and preparation translate into success, with skills the students will carry into the work force.

Dr. Dobbins noted that students must work on "soft skills" in addition to academics. Asked to explain, he said that many of today's graduates don't know how to give a speech, write letters, send a formal email, or even how to dress properly for a job. They have knowledge, but many of them lack the polish needed for a successful career.

He emphasized that "some of our more traditional agriculture degrees within the School of Agriculture, Forest, and Environmental science have some of the highest employment rates of any of the university degrees. Take, for example, the Agricultural Education and Agricultural Mechanization and Business programs, which have employment rates of 95 to 98 percent."

Graduates in plant and soil sciences can pretty much set their own salaries, he added. Clemson wants its graduates to "act locally and think globally. This is our biggest task. Our graduates, when they choose to live and work in South Carolina, translate into a positive economic impact, a guaranteed economic stimulus," he said.

Prescribed Burning Certification Classes Offered

Land managers who conduct outdoor burning can reduce their liability by becoming Certified Prescribed Fire Managers. The SC Forestry Commission has scheduled four training sessions: October 8, Columbia; October 22, Florence; November 13, Walterboro; January 7, Columbia.

Conducted by Forestry Commission personnel, the one-day course teaches land owners how to plan prescribed burns to comply with state air quality regulations. The Smoke Management Guidelines are mandatory for all forestry, wildlife and agriculture burning in South Carolina.

South Carolinians conduct controlled burns on half a million acres each year. This ancient practice has evolved into a critical modern land management tool. Today's land managers rely on fire to reduce fuel load mitigating against wildfire, for wildlife habitat management, and for agricultural or forestry site preparation.

Forestry Commission training director Leslie Woodham emphasizes that the Certified Prescribed Fire Manger course is not a beginner's course in prescribed burning. It is advanced training in smoke management and legal issues.

Achieving certification provides burners with limited liability protection under state law. Requirements include pre-course study, passing a written test, documenting one's burning experience, and agreeing to conduct all burning according to standards set forth in the SC Prescribed Fire Act.

To register for any session, contact Leslie Woodham at 803-896-8809 or visit www.trees.sc.gov. The fee is $50 and applications are processed on a first come, first served basis. The deadline for registration is three weeks prior to each scheduled class.
